PAVING GETS ANOTHER BOOST

Council Passes Resolution Giving
Commissioners Power to go Ahead With Street Improvement.

ATTORNEYS HAND OUT ADVISE

Bond Ordinance For Twelve Thousand Dollars is Passed—New Member Library Board.

A heated discussion of the three-mile road law featured the session of the city council last night. The discussion was caused by the introduction of a resolution by John D. Megee, giving the county commissioners permission to pave Perkins, Sixth and Seventh streets, as provided in the C. H. Alger, et al., petition now before the board.

The resolution was finally passed but it was done against the advice of city attorney Howard Barrett. The petition for paving the streets under the three-mile road law has passed the commissioners court and in order to advertise for bids it was necessary to get permission from the city to use the streets. The paving will start at the corner of Perkins and Second streets and extend past the Catholic cemetery on the Fort Wayne road.

Mr. Megee in presenting the resolution, stated that its passage simply gave the commissioners the right to go ahead with the paving. He stated that in no way was the city bound as the resolution did not approve the plans or specifications. Mr. Megee stated that the three-mile road law was fair because the taxpayers of Rushville pay for the upkeep of the township highways and pointed out that the taxpayers in the township outside of the city should be willing to help improve the streets of this city.

Howard Barrett, city attorney was dead against the passing of the resolution and denounced the three-mile road law as being one of the greatest frauds ever handed the people of Indiana. Mr. Barrett said in his opinion the city should advertise and hear the property owners on the proposition and then pass the improvement resolution as is done in all improvements contracted by the city. The city attorney and Mr. Megee gave the council opinions on the law, which has never been passed on by the supreme court. Mr. Barrett believed that a tax payer could come back on the city and sue for the amount over and above the cost of building an ordinary highway. Mr. Megee finally won out and the resolution was adopted. Mr. Megee held that the city was not binding the property owners or the city in passing the resolution. The resolution was passed by unanimous vote.

Councilman Kelley demanded that the council settle the trouble it has gotten into with W. A. Jones. The city, in its search for water, drilled three wells on the Jones land east of the city and now Mr. Jones wants damages. Mr. Kelley demanded that the special water committee meet with Mr. Jones and settle the matter. Dr. Parsons objected and stated that if Mr. Jones wanted a settlement it was his place to come before the council. Dr. Parsons was chairman of the special water committee that drilled the wells on the Jones land. He stated that he made all the arrangements with Mr. Jones before the wells were drilled and offered him a contract calling for $32 a year for the use of the wells but that Mr. Jones refused to sign Dr. Parson reviewed the transaction from beginning to end and stated that Mr. Jones was now wanting future damages and that for his part he was

COURT MEASURE PASSES SENATE

Upper House of Legislature Votes
Today to Give Rush and Shelby
Separate Circuits.

40 FOR IT AND 3 AGAINST IT

Bill Will Have to Pass Lower House and be Signed by Governor to be a Law.

Senate bill No. 35, introduced by Senator Will Yarling of Shelbyville, which provides for a separate court here and at Shelbyville, and the re-establishment of the Marion county superior court which has been held during Shelby circuit court vacation at Shelbyville, was passed by the senate in Indianapolis this morning about eleven o'clock.

Forty senators voted for the bill, three voted against it and seven were absent. The same bill will have to pass the lower house and the governor will have to sign it before it becomes a law.

Attorneys here today were freely predicting that the bill would become a law by a week from today. There seems to be little doubt but that it will have as easy sailing in the house of representatives.

If the bill has as little trouble in the house as it did in the senate, and the prediction of Rushville lawyers comes true, Rush county will have a circuit court all its own within seventeen days, or possibly sooner. In case a bill is not signed by the governor within ten days after it reaches his desk, it becomes a law automatically without his signature.

The Yarling senate bill will have to be introduced in the house of representatives and have three readings before it will be sent to the governor for his signature. It is believed that the bill will reach the third reading within a week, when it will come to a vote.

Although a bill of exactly the same language as the senate bill, which passed this morning, has been introduced in the house by Representative Billman of Shelby county, the Yarling bill will have to be introduced in the house and passed before the sixteenth judicial circuit will be split into two circuits.

The rule is that the same bills are introduced in both houses, and the one which passes first is introduced in the other house. In this case the Billman bill will not be heard of again. It was up for second reading in the house today, but that was to be dispensed with since the passage of the senate bill.

In case the Yarling bill becomes a law, Rush county's circuit court will be known as the sixty-sixth judicial circuit. The original bill provided that the local circuit be known as the sixty-fourth, but other judicial bills providing for separate circuits, were introduced ahead of it and the number to be changed.

It is not at all improbable that Judge Blair will never hold court here again. The next term of court begins the first Monday in February, and there is much speculation whether the bill will have become a law by that time and a judge and prosecutor appointed by the governor.

Attorneys are led to believe that it is barely possible that the appointments will have been made by February third, and that the court will start off as provided by the bill, which says there shall be four terms of court each year, known as the February, May, September and November terms. In case the appointments have not been made by February third, and the bill is a law,

Opportunity, Without Gloves, Is Knocking at Your Door Now

There has been pending before the people of Rushville for almost two weeks the proposition of raising ten thousand dollars to bring the extension of the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction company's lines to Rushville. This is of immeasurable importance to the city and community.

The ten thousand dollars which is asked of Rushville and Rush county people would be used to purchase right-of-way between this city and Andersonville. Options have been taken on all land over the proposed route of extension and it is down in so many dollars and cents how much will be required to purchase the land and move the buildings which would obstruct the building of the line.

Charles L. Henry, president of the I. & C. has said repeatedly, since the extension of the line to Cincinnati has been under consideration, that it would not be constructed through any county which would not furnish free right-of-way. Some farmers along the proposed route have been kind enough to donate their land, but others have demanded a price which they believe will remunerate them to the extent that they are damaged.

A meeting was held in the court house a week ago last Thursday night. Business men and others who have the future welfare of Rushville at heart were invited to hear the proposition which the I. & C. has to offer, and about thirty men showed enough interest in the city with which they have cast their lot to spend the evening at the meeting—a great sacrifice, too.

There it was stated that it would cost about ten thousand dollars to buy up the right-of-way between here and Andersonville. Citizens of New Salem and community have agreed to stand their share of the cost of the right-of-way from the Ora Logan farm to the county line.

A long discussion, without results, was held as to methods to adopt to raise the money. The meeting agreed that the traction line should be extended from Rushville, but some men were at a loss to know whether "a raffle" or an "oyster supper" would be the proper means to use to raise the money.

It was suggested that the only way to get ten thousand dollars, and get it at once, would be to subscribe it—and then pay the subscriptions. This did not meet the approval of the meeting. A committee was appointed to confer with some of the land owners who have named the least price they will take for the right-of-way through their farms and see if they could not be induced to take a smaller sum.

The appointment of the committee was a waste of time as the developments have proved. The committee was to report the following Monday night. The committee never put in its appearance, neither did any members of the previous meeting. Another meeting was to have been held last Wednesday night, but no one had enough concern about the problem at hand to attend that.

What is the result? Practically two weeks have been wasted since the I. & C. made the proposition to the people of Rushville. They have gone, where they can never be recalled. Successful men of business do not dally long. Mr. Henry and the board of directors have been some time in deciding on the route to be taken for the Cincinnati extension. They have picked the route from Rushville and Rushville knows what is expected of them. If no interest is shown here and if the apathy, which has been apparent since the proposition was put, continues, the extension will undoubtedly be made by another route.

Business men of Rushville who have been successful—and they all have in the measure that they have applied themselves to their business—should realize the value of the extension of the interurban line to Rushville. If they have never given the thing any serious thought, it is high time that they do. They might take their pencil, the back of an old envelope and figure with us.

The I. & C. traction line passing through twelve miles of southern Rush county will increase the value of land immensely. This will surely make the community through which it travels richer. There is no argument to gainsay that. A more prosperous community is a thing to be desired, not only by the community but by the business men who are dependent on its trade.

No business man of Rushville will be niggardly enough to deny that the traction line will tap a new territory that is untouched by competition and that it will result in more trade. No real estate owner will be unfair enough to believe in his own mind—no matter what he or she may say to others—that an increased population will not benefit the city generally and will have a resultant effect on property generally.

The proposed extension would tap a community that is not reached by any common carrier. People living along the route as it is now planned are anxious to see the extension made. It will afford them an outlet for their activities and will offer them opportunities to take advantages of the increased stocks to select from here. They have no method of travel except by automobile or horse-drawn vehicle. Even though passengers from this district only travel through Rushville, some advantage is to be gained. Rushville is not ready to lie down and shuffle off even though the events of the last two weeks in industrial Rushville may point in that direction. A man in Rushville occasionally, is worth two dozen several miles distant in an untapped country, it matters not what he buys.

Consider, too, that there would be a necessary increase in the size of the power house, car barns and general offices, all

DRUGGIST DIES VERY SUDDENLY

W. J. Waite, Age 55, Expires of Heart Trouble During Paroxysm of Coughing.

AT STORE ALL DAY YESTERDAY

He is Last Male Member Bearing Family Name—Funeral Will be Thursday.

W. J. Waite, age fifty-five years, died suddenly at his home in North Morgan street last evening of heart trouble. Although he had not been in the very best of health for the last few days, Mr. Waite had been able to be in his place at Woleott's drug store. His demise came as a distinct shock to his large circle of friends.

Mr. Waite had been suffering with an attack of bronchitis or gripe, and only yesterday told a fellow pharmacist that he had been unable to sleep any Monday night because of his ailment. Heart failure, in connection with paroxysm of coughing was the direct cause of his death.

Mr. Waite came to Rushville in February, 1882. For a number of years he was the local agent for the United States Express company. Most of the time during his residence here he has been one of the most reliable pharmacists of the city. For a short time he was in Connerville, but for recent years he has been in the F. E. Woleott drug store, where he will be greatly missed.

In October, 1883, Mr. Waite was married to Miss Margaret Davidson, of Cherry Fork, Ohio, whose death occurred in August, 1898. In 1904, he was married to Miss Anna Davison, who, with the two daughters, the Misses Anna and Elizabeth, survive him. Mr. Waite is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Jennie Ball of Fostoria, Ohio. Mr. Waite's father died when his only son was four weeks old and Mr. Waite was the last male member bearing the family name.

His college education was received in Monmouth college, Monmouth, Ill., in which institution he was a classmate with his pastor, Dr. A. W. Jamieson. He was, during his entire residence in this city an honored member of the United Presbyterian church, and for many years he has been a Ruling Elder in the congregation.

The funeral services will be held in the church Thursday evening at 7:30, and the body will be taken back to the old home, Cherry Fork, Ohio, for burial.

FIRST SEMESTER CLOSES

Local School Children Will Get Report Cards Friday.

The second semester of the Rushville public schools will begin next Monday. The examinations closed this afternoon and the pupils will call at their respective rooms for their report cards Friday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock. No school will be held tomorrow. Yesterday and today were devoted to examinations in the high school, and today only examinations were held in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. The first six grades held no special closing examinations. Teachers of the first five grades will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon.

The property of James Wikoff, who died a few days ago, was appraised at Falmouth today. Jacob Gross and Chris Sigers acted as appraisers.

HAS SPECIAL IMPORT HERE

Senator Cary Jackson's Bill Empowers City Council to Levy Tax for Oiling Streets.

CORRECTS LOCAL CONDITIONS

Another Measure of His Provides for Teaching of Agriculture and Domestic Science.

Senator Jackson of this city yesterday introduced two bills in the State senate in Indianapolis, one of which has a special bearing on conditions in Rushville and which was evidently presented to correct a condition which exists here.

One of the bills seeks to authorize cities to levy a tax for sprinkling and oiling streets, and for making other improvements. The other bill provides for the establishment of high schools for the teaching of agriculture and domestic science, and for the levying of a tax for such purpose.

The intent of the first bill is very clear. The present Democratic city council has had the sprinkling bugaboo hounding its trail since it began the administration of affairs in Rushville. During most of the time this council has been in office, the water supply in Rushville has been very poor and for the last two summers the use of city water for sprinkling the streets, to water the gardens and lawns, or for use of the housewife in scrubbing, has been prohibited.

Those who had paid their water rent in advance two years ago made complaint because they paid for the privilege of sprinkling, and last summer no charge for sprinkling was made.

For two years Rushville has suffered from dusty streets during the summer, with the exception where property owners oiled their streets. This soon became a popular method to do away with the dust, and probably half the mileage of streets in Rushville were oiled last summer.

If Senator Jackson's bill becomes a law, there will be no more trouble with dust in Rushville. The city council can then levy a tax to pay for such work, and the streets will either be oiled or sprinkled by the city. The bill also contains a clause which gives the city the power to have streets cleaned.

The council or board may order the work done, hear remonstrances and let the contract, and levy assessments to bear the cost of the work, such assessment to stand as a lien against the property owner. If the assessment plan is not desired, such work may be ordered and paid out of the general fund.

The other bill Senator Jackson introduced empowers township trustees to issue bonds and levy a tax, with the concurrence of the advisory board of the township, for the purpose of building and equipping a room or building on the high school grounds of a township, to be used for the purpose of instruction in agriculture and domestic science, physical or mental culture.

Ten per cent. of the taxpayers of a township may petition for such building, and it then will be mandatory upon the trustee to proceed in the issuing of bonds and the levying of the tax for satisfaction of such bonds. The bill is a sort of collateral measure designed to work in harmony with any law that may be enacted for the advancement of vocational and agricultural training.

FLEA IN EAR OF OFFICE SEEKERS

Mr. Wilson Talks Right Out In Meeting.

ESTABLISHES HIS STANDARD

In Telling a Delegation of Jersey Advocates of the Claims of a Place Seeker His Opinion Regarding the Primary Motives That Should Govern Appointments in Public Service, Wilson Takes Hearers Back.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 22.—"If men are to know that a mere change of administration is to empty an office, no matter how they have deserved to be reappointed, there is not anything of justice or public right left."

In these words President Elect Wilson let it be known that justice and consideration for public service are to govern his appointments and that in considering any man for a place he is bound to recognize his fitness. He also indicated that he might in his appointments be expected to depart from the beaten path, which, in his opinion, leads "to scooping every office."

The governor's statement as to his attitude toward appointments came at the conclusion of a hearing which he gave to a score of delegates representing labor organizations in various parts of New Jersey. They came to urge him to name John T. Cosgrove of Elizabeth as state commissioner of labor to succeed Lewis T. Bryant. The latter is a Republican and his term is presently to expire. Mr. Cosgrove is a Democrat and now serves as a member of the Employers' liability commission. Samuel Botterill, a member of the executive council of the State

Brotherhood of Carpenters and Builders, was spokesman for the delegation, and he advanced the claims of Mr. Cosgrove, not only as a competent man with knowledge of the desires of union labor, but also as a Democrat.

"May I say kindly," concluded Mr. Botterill, "that we demand that labor may be recognized in this instance?" To which the governor replied: "There is another side in the matter which must be taken into consideration, and that is public service. Public office is not worth anything if an entirely satisfactory fulfillment of the duties of an office does not entitle a man to consideration for reappointment. If men are to know that a mere change of administration is to empty an office, no matter how they have deserved to be reappointed, there is not anything of justice or public right left."

"I feel to the full extent the argument you have made in favor of Mr. Cosgrove, but I have not a clean slate to write on. If we were creating this office your arguments would be different. I am bound to consider the claims of a man who has devoted (I can myself testify) as much energy and ardor of spirit to this office as any public officer has shown. While I shall be happy to consider the claims of Mr. Cosgrove, I owe it to myself to say this. I think you went a little too far. I do not need to say to this company that I entirely sympathize with the aspirations of labor and that I entirely recognize the rights of labor, but as the responsible appointing officer I am bound to consider the name of a man who has made good as Colonel Bryant has. Colonel Bryant has made good, and I am bound to consider his claims. I would be ashamed of myself if I did not."

The members of the delegation were somewhat taken back by the plainness of the governor's language.

SEEKS HOME FOR MARSHALL

Thistlethwaite Looks Over Hotel Suites in Washington.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Mark Thistlethwaite, secretary to Vice President Elect Marshall, started out bright and early after his arrival here to select living quarters for Mr. and Mrs. Marshall for the extra session. He looked at rooms at the New Willard, the Raleigh, the Shoreham and the Ebbitt hotels, and he will submit the results of his investigation to Mr. Marshall before closing an arrangement with any of those hotels.

The Baby Got Ashore Alive.

Oporto, Jan. 22.—The most remarkable thing about the recent wreck of the steamship Veronese is that a ten-months-old baby which was washed ashore wrapped in blankets is alive and well. The last computation is that there were forty-four victims of the wreck. These include three first- and three second-class passengers, thirty three Spanish emigrants and five members of the crew.

Mrs. Dayton Not Indicted.

Richmond, Ind., Jan. 22.—The grand jury of the Wayne circuit court has returned an indictment against Joseph F. Snyder, charging that he murdered William Henry Dayton on Labor day 1910. Snyder has been a fugitive from justice for more than a month. Mrs. Dayton, widow of the murdered man was not indicted.

COURT APPROVED THE BONDS

Four of the Convicted Dynamiters Now Have Left Prison.

Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 22.—William E. Reddin of Milwaukee and W. Bert Brown and W. J. McCain of Kansas City, iron workers, who entered the federal prison here Jan. 1, following conviction at Indianapolis in connection with the dynamite conspiracy, have been released on bond. Each had been sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

The release followed the receipt of notice from the United States circuit court of appeals in Chicago, that bonds of $30,000 for each of the men had been completed. The men departed for their homes within a half hour of release.

Reddin was the cellmate of Charles N. Beum of Minneapolis, who was released last week. Four men of the thirty-three now are at liberty under supersedeas bonds pending appeal.

CANNON AIR SAFETY DEVICE.

Invention to Protect Aviators Is Tested by Originator in Paris.

An interesting device to protect the lives of aviators has been invented and was recently tested by its originator, Baron Odolok of Paris. The contrivance weighs only twelve pounds and consists of a parachute attached to a small cannon. A string from the cannon is attached to the aviator, who in the moment of danger arises in his seat and the cannon is discharged, throwing the parachute and the aviator free from the machine. The aviator before ascending buckles two heavy straps attached to the lower end of the parachute about his waist.

THE PACIFICS TRYING TO GET UNSCRAMBLLED

But They Find a Stumbling Block In the Way.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Representatives of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads, acting under plenary powers granted by their respective boards of directors, are holding a series of conferences in Washington in an effort to reach an agreement in regard to the dissolution of the so-called merger. Final disposition of the Central Pacific railroad is the chief stumbling block for the conferees.

The Southern Pacific men decline absolutely to part with the Central, and the Union Pacific representatives are powerless to offer any inducements which will lead to a change of attitude on the part of the owners of the Central Pacific. The representatives of the two systems two or three times interrupted their deliberations long enough to visit the department of justice and seek the opinion of Attorney General Wickersham. It was very apparent, however, that they were consulting Mr. Wickersham for the purpose of settling differences between themselves, and not with a view to obtaining his sanction of any proposition.

It was acknowledged that the conferees are deadlocked and that very little progress has been made.

Wireless Sent 4,400 Miles.

The wireless station at Nauen, near Berlin, reports that it was in wireless communication with New York recently. This, it is stated, is the first time direct wireless communication has been established between Germany and America. The distance from New York to the kaiser's capital is approximately 4,400 miles.

TAKING NO CHANCES
ON ANOTHER REVOLT

Warship Sent to Vera Cruz to Quell Disorder.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The gunboat Wheeling has been directed, at the request of the state department, to go to Vera Cruz on the east coast of Mexico. Alarming reports from Vera Cruz were responsible for the orders dispatching the Wheeling. Both the consul and a number of American citizens at Vera Cruz fear there is strong probability of another series of revolutionary disturbances in the vicinity of Vera Cruz. No American warship has been at Vera Cruz since the cruiser Des Moines left there a few weeks after the collapse of the Felix Diaz revolt in October. The instructions sent Commander Hutchison of the Wheeling are very general, and leave it to him to exercise his discretion in the emergency which may endanger the life and property of Americans. The action of the state department in sending a ship to Vera Cruz in advance of any marked disturbance at the city is in accordance with the determination of the Taft administration to do all within its power to prevent any occurrence of such a character as to prove seriously embarrassing either to Mexico or to the United States. It is the intention of President Taft at this time to turn the Mexican situation over to his successor with just as few complications as possible. Other dispatches to the state department indicate an increase of revolutionary activities in the south of Mexico. State's Vital Statistics. Indianapolis, Jan. 22.—Death claimed 3,115 victims in Indiana last December, which is 338 more than in the corresponding month of the preceding year, according to the statistical report of the state board of health. Pneumonia caused the greatest number of deaths, with a record of 322, while tuberculosis claimed 284. Two thousand one hundred and twenty boys and 2,034 girls were born, however, to fill the vacancy. Flood Waters Subsiding. Evansville, Ind., Jan. 22.—The Ohio river is falling here, and by tomorrow it is expected the water will have receded from the uptown streets and before the end of the week other flooded districts will be sufficiently drained to permit the clearing away of debris. TERSE TELEGRAMS The first annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is in session at Washington. The ranch and mills owned by an American named J. M. Gleason were attacked by Mexican rebels and two or three employees were killed. Colonel Sir William Henry Manning has been appointed governor of Jamaica to replace Sir Henry Olivier, who has held that office since 1907. Colima volcano in Mexico is in violent eruption and inhabitants of nearby towns and villages are fleeing to escape death by strangulation. Reports are current in grand opera circles that Vanni Marcoux, the baritone of the Boston Opera company, is engaged to be married to Mary Garden, the prima donna. The dissolution of the six-power group of financiers is imminent owing to internal dissensions in that body, and consequently China is free to negotiate a loan with a new group. Senator Root of New York spoke for nearly three hours in support of his bill to repeal the law giving free tolls to American coastwise shipping passing through the Panama canal. CAUCUS ADOPTS

THE UNIT RULE

Indiana Democrats Take Important Action.

TO BE BOUND AS ONE MAN

Conclusion of Probably Far-Reaching Consequence Was Reached at Caucus of Majority Members of Hoosier Upper House, Who Also Took Away From Majority Leader the Right to Name Committees of the Senate.

Indianapolis, Jan. 22.—At caucus of the senate majority a new unit rule governing the binding of Democratic members of the upper house was adopted. Under the rule each senator attending and voting at a caucus will be bound by the action of his fellow members, provided there is a majority of the entire number of senate Democrats voting in favor of any given proposition.

The effect of the rule will be to bind nineteen of the forty Democrats on caucus measures if twenty-one of the forty vote to make any bill a party question or if the twenty-one vote to oppose any legislation. If the nineteen should desire such legislation the rule will require the nineteen to abide by the decision of the twenty-one. In other words, if twenty-one Democratic senators are favorable to any measure and the other nineteen attend and vote all of those voting would be bound by caucus action, no matter what their position might be on the questions under consideration. Another rule adopted takes away from Senator Curtis, the majority leader, the complete right to name a steering committee or any other committee. The new rule with reference to the appointment of committees states that all committees shall be named by the chairman of the caucus with the approval of the caucus before such committees can serve.

The inheritance tax bill was reported favorably by the judiciary committee of the senate. This measure provides for a 5 per cent tax on all inheritances except bequests to lineal heirs, such as father to son, a child to his parent, etc. Other bills reported favorably were as follows: The Indiana Forestry association bill; the bill providing that divorce suits must lie open on the docket for sixty days before action is taken; the bill giving either court or jury power to fix the minimum sentences in manslaughter cases; the bill making it unlawful for persons or corporations to obtain credit by false statements; the bill providing a penalty for trespassing on railroad rights-of-way, and the bill to prohibit the use of ferrets in the hunting of game.

The mothers' pension bill was killed by the house committee on judiciary. The Grube initiative and referendum bill, the measure which caused so much bitterness in the upper house two years ago, has been introduced again by Senator Grube of Plymouth.

A favorable report by the committee on cities and towns was made on the bill permitting towns and cities of the fifth class to grade streets and charge the cost to property owners.

Representative John Leyendecker of this city has introduced a bill in the house to make it illegal for any person to hold office in a city when such person is in any manner connected with any person, firm or corporation which sells supplies to the city, or has any contract with or franchise from the city. If this bill is passed it will oust Councilman Fred C. Owen from office, because he is the paymaster for the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company. The bill would declare vacant any office held by any such person at the time of its passage.

Representative Weisman introduced a bill to prevent "log rolling" and vote trading among members in the enactment of laws. The bill proposes a fine of from $100 to $1,000 for each violation. Mr. Weisman also introduced a bill to require all lobbyists to register and to file statements of their expenses.

Clarence A. Kenyon appeared before the house committee on agriculture and gave an explanation of the good roads bill introduced by Representative Hughes. The bill provides for the creation of a state highway commission. Mr. Kenyon explained that the powers given the commission did not override local authorities, but rather gave assistance to them. Road building and maintenance is a science, he said. France, he said, has a school to teach road building, and he pointed out that while Indiana has 11,000 miles of railroads and 1,100 miles of interurban lines, it has 68,000 miles of roads. While the steam and electric roads are under a central and scientific management, the 68,000 miles of public roads are allowed largely to shift for themselves.

The senate committee on public morals decided to report for indefinite postponement senate bill No. 45, introduced by Senator Gavit, which sought to amend the Proctor regulatory act of 1911 as it relates to the expiration of licenses. The committee decided to report favorably the Traylor bill to prohibit the drinking of intoxicating liquors on steam or interurban cars except that bought in the dining car. It was decided to amend the bill to cut out that provision which would prohibit the drinking of such liquor around railway stations and drinking liquor on trains for medical purposes.

or both installments will become delinquent and subject to a penalty.

The Second Installment must be paid on or before the

FIRST MONDAY IN NOVEMBER, 1913

No tax receipts will be held out until taxes are paid in full. Road Tax is included in the May Installment. Bring your road receipts at the May payment, as they will not be received in payment of the Second Installment.

EXTRACTS FROM THE STATUTES OF INDIANA

That each person or taxpayer charged with taxes on a duplicate in the hands of a County Treasurer may pay the full amount of such taxes on or before the first Monday in May, or may at his option, pay one-half thereof on or before the first Monday in May, and the remaining half on or before the first Monday in November, in the manner prescribed by law. All road taxes to be added to the first installment. When first installment is not paid prior to the first Monday in May, the taxes for the whole year become delinquent. The Treasurer will not be responsible for the penalty and charges on Delinquent Taxes resulting from any omission of the person paying to state definitely on what property, in whose name and in what township or corporation it was assessed. Persons owing Delinquent Taxes should pay them at once. The late law is of such character that there is no option left the Treasurer but to enforce the collection of delinquent taxes, however much he may regret to collect the same, by sale of property. The owner of the property on the first day of March in any year, shall be liable for the payment of all taxes of that year. The purchaser of property on the first day of March shall be considered as owner on that day.—Sec. 108. All the property, both personal and real, situated in any county, shall be liable for the taxes, penalties, interests and costs to the owners thereof, in such county, and no partial payment of such taxes, penalties, interests or costs shall discharge or release any part or portion of such property until the whole be paid; which lien shall in no wise be affected or destroyed by any sale or transfer of any such personal property.—Sec. 644, R. S.

The Treasurer has no option in rebating the penalty on taxes allowed to go delinquent. Taxpayers are particularly notified that all Road Tax is due and payable with the first installment. NO COUNTY ORDERS WILL BE PAID TO PERSONS OWING DELINQUENT TAXES, AND ALL PARTIES ARE WARNED AGAINST BUYING THE SAME.

The Annual Sale of Delinquent Lands and Lots will take place on the Second Monday in February, 1913.

PARTICULAR ATTENTION

TAXPAYERS SHOULD EXAMINE THEIR RECEIPTS before leaving the Treasurer's office, and see that they are correct. Those who have lands or other property in more than one township, must see that they have a receipt for all.

WM. M. McBRIDE

TREASURER OF RUSH COUNTY

Rushville, Indiana, January 1st, 1913.

AUDITOR'S SPECIAL NOTICE

Parties having School Fund Loans on which interest is delinquent will please give the payment of said interest their attention before March 1st, as the law requires the prompt collection of said interest.

ALLEN R. HOLDEN, Auditor Rush County, Indiana

Sam Sanderson Says:

That the man who introduces a bill in the legislature to compel women to have their dresses made to button down the front will receive the unanimous praise of the married men's club.

Editorialettes

As an example of persistence a man who reads the report of the trustee of his township is commended.

A young street car conductor in Indianapolis named Cash was arrested yesterday for "knocking down." No, Clarabelle, he was not held up. "The rest of them have been getting theirs," said Cash, "and I intended to get mine."

"On What Sum Can Young Persons Marry," is the subject of a very enlightening editorial in an exchange. The ed. says that Miss Annette Perry told the New York Mothers club the other day that many girls set ten thousand a year as the limit below which marriage is imprudent. No wonder Ag. is still a miss.

And again Sarah Bernhardt says French young people are generally satisfied on twenty per week, of course. Who all's going to claim relation to the French now?

A Cincinnati man fell twenty-nine stories down an elevator shaft and lived seven hours. Under the same proportion, if he had fallen six more stories he would have lived another hour.

Something to Worry About.

A newspaper story discussing in a humorous vein the per capita of circulation of money in the United States has caused the treasury department to be flooded with applications for the writers' distributive share, $34.72. The director of the mint has been compelled to issue a circular explaining that the department computes monthly the per capita circulation on a theoretical basis, but has no control over its distribution.

FOR TOWNSHIP HIGH SCHOOL

Senator Yarling Has a Bill in The Legislature.

Senator Yarling of Shelbyville introduced a bill in the senate providing for the establishment of township high schools. It is provided that in each township where the taxable property is valued at as much as $600,000 and where no high school has been established and where there are eight or more graduates from the elementary schools, a high school shall be established. It is made the duty of the township trustee to employ capable teachers and with the assistance of the advisory board he is to select the place for establishing the school.

OPPORTUNITY, WITHOUT GLOVES, IS located here. The car barns and power house would have to be enlarged to accommodate the business after the addition of seventy more miles of track. The office force, as well as the force at the barns and power house, would have to be enlarged. The operation of cars over the extension would require many more men to operate them. It would bring more people to Rushville. More crews would have to "lay over" here and would of necessity make their homes here. Surely Rushville does not care to shut its gates against any newcomers.

There is still another phase to the case. The I. & C. does not propose to wait a year or two for Rushville to make up its mind. The traction officials are accustomed to doing business carefully, but with haste, since no time is to be gained by loitering. It would not be a difficult matter for the I. & C. to remove its general offices to Indianapolis where they were formerly located and where the president resides. Neither would it be a great task to build the principal car barns at the junction of the Shelbyville and Rushville divisions and merely make the car barns here "lay over" barns for the cars.

Are we, the people of Rushville and southern Rush county, after immediate gain that we can see in dollars and cents in a year or do we want to better our resources for the future? Do we want to go on dealing in todays when we should be working with tomorrows? Couldn't we afford to borrow money to locate such an enterprise as the extension of the I. & C. and realize off of it in the future. In a word can't we see far enough ahead to know that the entrance of an interurban line into the rich country in the southern half of Rush county will realize large dividends in the future on the first meager investment?

We should not parley about how much the other fellow can give toward the fund that will bring the extension to Rushville. The chief thing for you to consider is how much YOU will donate, figuring on at least a five-year investment. Would not that interurban line be worth one-half of one per cent. on your present business investment—this to be the one and only payment? This investment will work for you on more than ten per cent, interest the first year and double interest compounded each year after that. Is that a good investment? If farmers along the proposed line would consider the increase of ten to fifteen per cent in their land values, they should readily give one-half of one per cent of their present holdings, the same as every merchant, bank, professional man or any person in any business in Rushville or along the line that will be followed.

It should matter very little to us how the other fellow is benefitted by the extension in comparison with the amount he pays to make it possible. We are concerned only in ourselves. If the other fellow gets something for nothing, what difference is that to ourselves. What we are concerned about is whether WE are to make or lose by the investment. If it pays, any business man of sound judgment will take it. All any interested person need do in this case is merely to stop and think—and then figure. Surely if he is thinking of his welfare and the city on which he depends for a livelihood, he will invest in this opportunity which Rushville has to better itself.

There are men in Rushville who contend that the I. & C. extension will do them practically no good. Yet this same class of men will admit that their business has increased in the last seven years—the period that the I. & C. traction line has been operating. Isn't it highly probable that the interurban line was a factor in that increase? Here's a business man, confronted by that argument, who will reply that it was not the I. & C. that brought about the more prosperous condition in Rushville. But will he consider that there has been no other influence in Rushville in the last seven years outside of the Rushville furniture factory, which has not been in operation long enough to make its influence felt?

Let us stop and ponder. Has a merchant in Rushville failed in the last seven years who has attended to business as he should? Is there a merchant who is not in a prosperous condition? You who are acquainted with the business conditions in Rushville reminisce a bit and work out in your own mind how many business men have purchased their own homes or their business rooms in the last seven years? Is the interurban line not to have some credit for that?

In comparison with other things of industrial value to a city, an interurban line which passes through such a country as will be entered by the I. & C., if it is built from Rushville, is of almost inestimable value. An interurban line will not move away. It will not burn down. It will not close its doors and quit business. It comes to stay. It never moves away. It can always be depended on from now until the present generation is no more. Indianapolis is a living example of the value of interurbans. It has profited by the great system of traction lines that have been built all over Indiana.

We would advise that you who are interested in what Rushville holds in store for you not worry your mind about how much the other fellow gives toward the fund that is to be raised, nor about the benefit that the other fellow is to derive, but knuckle down to brass tacks and tell Charles L. Henry "Yes" or "No." But let's make it "Yes" and show him that we realize the value of the enterprise that he proposes to bring to us and let's answer Opportunity's knock before it kicks the panels of the door in.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Raleigh Methodist church will be held next Sunday. Dr. V. W. Tevis of this city, the district superintendent, will preside.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

NEWCASTLE'S EXAMPLE.

(Newcastle Courier.)

Once more Newcastle steps to the front with a demonstration of the progressive spirit that challenges the admiration of the commonwealth.

Within ten days the handsome sum of $12,500 was raised by personal solicitation to enable the Commercial club to locate another factory, and last Saturday evening all preliminaries were agreed to and the contract signed for the establishment here of the plant of the Universal Farm Tractor company for the manufacture of an agricultural implement of great value and full of promise for the building up of a big industry, but which, as it stands, under the guarantee of its promoters, is an excellent investment.

What other city or town in Indiana, of equal or double the population of Newcastle, would even undertake to accomplish so much in so short a time, if at all? There was no lot sale, no offer of stock or other equivalent, but just a square solicitation to donate whatever one might feel able or willing to give for the good of the community.

The old spirit of enterprise and home pride was aroused. Confidence in the merit of the undertaking was established and the determination to succeed prevailed. Again the fair fame of Newcastle as the most progressive, the most up-to-date and the most public-spirited city in the middle West has been vindicated.

All honor to the Commercial club and to the hard-working members who abandoned their own business affairs and gave their time to the solicitation of funds. They stood by the proposition in all kinds of weather, er, were not discouraged by rebuff or paltry excuse, and won out.

The value of the club as an organization designed to promote the welfare of the city is proved. Encouraged by this great success, accomplished on its first anniversary, it will continue in business at the old stand, better equipped and more capable because of this experience to grasp and successfully handle future propositions designed to promote our industrial prosperity and increase the population of the city.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis of New Salem is very seriously sick with pneumonia.

It's Funny

How minds will differ. It would be absolutely impractical to pave the city with gold bricks, is the statement a friend of mine made to me and he gave this reason:

Hoboes from all over the country would come here and extract them as they needed them and it would keep our streets torn up almost all the time.

What method do you think could be devised to remedy this condition?

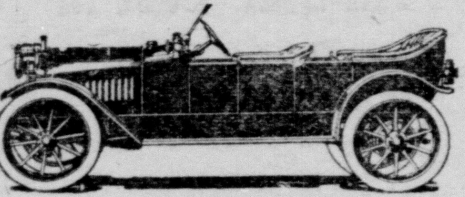

I am open for suggestions.

He Comes Up Smiling

By Charles Sherman

She looked at Bartlett as he held out his hand to help her down and her eyes laughed deep into his.

"In self-defense—" he pleaded in a whisper.

So in the freshness of the early morning they dipped down the hill into the valley, passed farm-houses and corn lands. They stopped about nine at a farm-house and partook of a breakfast of coffee, bacon and eggs. Alphonse filled the cars at a village store and they went on. The glory of the day, the close proximity of Henrietta, who sat beside him, dainty, merry, feminine, the success so far of his plan, which in his saner moments he still cherished, raised Bartlett's spirits higher and higher and they went faster and faster. Farm-houses appeared and disappeared in a cloud of dust. Lakes were seen one moment and gone the next. They swept around a bend in the road and into a man trap, a pile of wood across the road and three farmers waiting grimly with loaded guns.

The Watermelon in the tonneau of the general's car, with Billy, straightened up with a sickening fear of being arrested in her presence. The fun and excitement of the adventure had disappeared. In their stead stalked the grim reality of the fear of exposure, of the surprise, scorn, perhaps anger, maybe pity, he would see in Billy's eyes.

The general for a moment considered it merely another means taken by the conspiracy to rob him of his car and contemplated stern defiance of the law's command to stop.

"It's not highway robbery, Charlie," laughed Bartlett. "We've been going a bit fast and have to pay up, that's all."

Haled before the justice of the peace in the village store, Bartlett paid his fine with casual indifference, the general with the haughty disapproval of a judge presiding at the bar of justice, while Henrietta, with gentle condescension, bought some highly-scented soap, "to help them out," she explained, meaning the owners of the store, and the Watermelon, to all outward appearances, frankly bored by the proceedings, presented Billy with a choice assortment of gaily tinted, dusty candy.

They put up for the night at a small town in Maine. It consisted of four or five scattered houses, a school, a

SURELY BANISHES CATARRH

Where there's catarrh there's thousands of catarrh germs. You can't get rid of catarrh unless you kill these germs.

You can't kill them with stomach medicine or sprays because they can't get where the germs are.

You can kill these germs with Booth's HYOMEI, a penetrating, antiseptic, balsamic air that you breathe a few times a day directly over the raw, sore, germ infested membrane. It does not contain morphine or any habit forming drug.

store, and a barrel factory. They found rooms in one of the houses and after supper, Henrietta, Bartlett and the general sat on the stoop, while the men smoked and the stars came out one by one, the frogs croaked dimly and the whippoorwills called and called.

The Watermelon asked Billy to take a walk with him and she consented. She must never know, thought the Watermelon, with boyish self-loathing, that he had dared to insult her by thinking of love, but it would not hurt any one but himself to walk with her. There was only a day or two more at the most before they parted, she thought, and he to Newport and Bar Harbor, and he to drift out on the tide again, with James and Mike.

They walked up the road in the soft beauty of the summer night. The Watermelon rolled a cigarette and puffed moodily, too busy himself with thoughts to talk, and the Watermelon did not like to think. He was not used to it.

"Darn it," he mused, "what did the Lord give us bodies for to want and want and then add minds to think?"

They came to a New England graveyard, perched on a rise of ground, where the road cut through a hill, a lonely, neglected place, overgrown with weeds and tall, rank grasses, the gravestones flat or falling. Hardly aware of what they did, they turned in and picked their way among the sunken graves.

Billy sat down on the bank by the driveway, and the Watermelon sat beside her, not too near. There was at least a foot between them.

"We are all alone," said the Watermelon, thinking aloud half of his thoughts. "All alone, but for the dead."

Alone, and the seven seas could not have parted them further.

"And God," added Billy piously.

"If there is one," admitted the Watermelon.

Billy looked at him quickly, earnestly. "Oh, Jerry, of course there is a God. Don't you know it?" "No," said the Watermelon. "When a person is happy, they know there is a God; when they are wretched, they say, every one does, 'There is no God.' If there is one, why doesn't he let the miserable wretch realize it instinctively as well as the happy person?"

Billy had never suffered, had never felt the foundations of her world falling around her in ruins, had never cried aloud in anguish, "How long, oh Lord, how long?" She answered from her inexperience, from the faith that had never been tested. "Of course

FOR A GOOD DIGESTION

A Local Druggist's Suggestion.

It has been said the body is like a machine and digestion and elimination of food are the two great factors of health.

If the digestive organs are weak, the stomach overtaxed, waste matter accumulates in the system—the liver gets sluggish and the blood becomes thin and devitalized.

We want to ask every person in this vicinity who is troubled with indigestion or a weak worn-out stomach to try our delicious cod liver and iron tonic Vinol.

We know it will strengthen and tone up the weakened, tired and overtaxed nerves of the digestive organs, create a hearty appetite, and replace weakness with strength.

We just heard of a case of a man in Oneonta, N. Y., who suffered from a bad stomach trouble for fifteen years and had become so weak he could hardly walk—who was cured by Vinol.

Try a bottle of Vinol and if it fails to help you we will give back your money. F. B. Johnson and Company, druggists, Rushville, Indiana.

P. S. For itching, burning skin try our Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

there is a God. Every one knows it, every one prays. Why, if your father was a minister, I should think you would know that there is a God."

"That's the trouble. He was a minister and he lost faith, and when he who should have known, wondered if there was a God, we kids knew there wasn't. I suppose it's the same if a boy finds that his mother has lost her virtue. He thinks there is none."

Billy placed her hand on the bank between them and leaned toward him on her straightened arm. "Poor old Jerry! But if your mother still believed?"

"A mother always believes in God and her worthless sons. It's a part of being a mother, I suppose."

CHAPTER XVI.

A Thief in the Night.

Billy laughed a low, throaty gurgle, and laid her hand an instant on his sleeve. "Don't you see, she believed in God and she believed in you. You didn't go back on her. Would God?"

The Watermelon did not answer. He was busy with a scene of the long ago. He and the youngest Miss Martin had been engaged in a set-to which hardly savored of brotherly love, and parental authority had separated them and passed judgment.

"Sister should not have struck you," the mother said as she stood him grimly in the corner. "But, Jeroboam, you should not have deceived sister. If you men would only keep faith with your women, this world would be too good to leave, even for Heaven," she had added with her usual tired sigh.

How had he kept faith with Billy? The question stared him in the face and he felt like the child again, standing in the corner, unable to answer. For the sake of an amusing week of her society, he had practically betrayed her father, had branded himself a thief by keeping the clothes, the watch, the money, which he had taken wrongly, for a few hours' fun, but which he had intended to return. In the love he felt for the girl, his long-stifled conscience slowly stirred again.

Billy was talking, crooning her comfort with the maternity latent in all women for the men they love. "Don't you see, Jerry, there is a God? Think of what you did for your mother, think of how proud she was of you when you did so well. By sheer grit you have made yourself what you are. You are tired and blue tonight, poor old boy."

The Watermelon was not listening. He took a roll of bills from his pocket and counted them. Billy watched him in perplexity. Was he worrying over money, she wondered. One hundred and seventy-four dollars left. He had not had an opportunity to spend more of that roll of bills which he had betrayed a woman and lowered his manhood to steal. He crushed the bills back into his pocket and rose.

"We had better go back," said he shortly. "It's late."

They found Henrietta and Bartlett on the front porch, talking in low voices, oblivious to all else. The general had long since sought the doubtful comfort of the country bed for city boarders.

Billy held out her hand to the Watermelon, a little ceremony she had heretofore neglected, wishing in her tender little heart that she understood his strange mood better and could comfort him.

"Good night," said she gently.

"Good night," said the Watermelon. Henrietta rose. "I didn't know it was so late. Wait, Billy, I am coming with you. Good night, all."

Bartlett followed the girls, but at the door he stopped and glanced back at the Watermelon standing on the grass by the steps.

"Better come to bed," said he.

The Watermelon nodded abstractedly and Bartlett went in, leaving him out there alone.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Rushville People Know How to Save it.

Many Rushville people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Here is a Rushville citizen's recommendation.

Mrs. Ella Endicott, 125 S. Harrison St., Rushville, Ind., says: "We have used Doan's Kidney Pills in our family with good results. A member of the family suffered from severe pains through his back and had difficulty in straightening after stooping. His kidneys were also irregular in action. Finally he used Doan's Kidney Pills and they corrected the troubles."

THE BRIDEGROOM

Finley J. Shepard United in Marriage to Helen M. Gould.

ONLY NEAR FRIENDS
AT GOULD WEDDING

Ceremony Characterized By Simplicity.

New York, Jan. 22.—At 12:30 today, Miss Helen Gould was married to Finley J. Shepard. The wedding was attended by about a hundred relatives and intimate friends, who were met at the Tarrytown station by automobiles, which conveyed them to Lyndhurst, Miss Gould's country place in Irvington. Miss Gould chose this date for her wedding, which is the anniversary of the marriage of her father and mother, and she insisted on the greatest simplicity in the details. There was an elaborate musical program by Nathan Franko's orchestra, which played while the wedding guests were assembling and during the marriage ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Daniel P. Russell. The wedding music included the nuptial march from Lohengrin and the familiar wedding march from Mendelssohn.

Miss Gould had as her only attendants here two nieces, Helen and Dorothy Gould, the little daughters of her brother, Frank J. Gould. L. J. Shepard acted as his brother's best man. There were no ushers. Miss Gould's wedding gown of ivory white satin was embellished by rare point lace, the gift of her sister, the Duchess of Talleyrand-Perigord, and her veil also was of point lace. She entered the drawing room with her brother, George J. Gould.

Immediately after the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served. The wedding cake boxes were heart-shaped, and embellished with white satin and ornamented with sprays of lilies of the valley, the bride elect's favorite flower. The various rooms of Lyndhurst were decorated with American Beauty roses and other flowers from the conservatories of Lyndhurst, and there were quantities of lilies of the valley.

Just where Mr. Shepard and his bride will pass the early part of the honeymoon has not been disclosed to their relatives.

GOVERNMENT PARTICIPATION

San Francisco Exposition to Get Help From Congress.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Government participation in the Panama-Pacific exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915 is authorized in a bill ordered reported to the house by the committee on industrial arts and expositions. The bill proposes the creating of a federal commission of seven members to be appointed by the president, each commissioner to receive a salary of $7,500 a year. The commission is authorized to invite each member of the Pan-American union to send an exhibit to San Francisco in 1915. The sum of $2,000,000 is appropriated for the purposes of the government commission.

Prof. Willcox, Eminent Statistician and Sociologist, Points Out, in a Discussion on Eugenics, What Will Be the Fate of the Old American Stock if Something is Not Done in the Matter.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 22.—That one of the most deplorable phases of modern American life from an eugenic standpoint is that college men and women are marrying in steadily decreasing numbers and that recent immigration is apparently killing off the old American stock, are statements made by Walter F. Willcox, the well-known Cornell statistician and sociologist, in a discussion on eugenics. He said:

"Recent immigration is apparently killing off the older American stock. The most desirable element from an eugenic viewpoint, including college men and women, are not marrying in the same proportionate numbers as in the past, and the nation is the worse off for the fewer children of desirable parents. The large families of less desirable parents among the classes where surroundings are not the best is placing a check on the progress of the country. Many civilized societies seem to be reproducing mainly more feeble or less desirable lines of descent. Thus the old American stock is apparently losing ground in the face of recent immigration.

"Probably in New York state there are more deaths than births each year in this class. Every hundred men who graduated from Harvard twenty-five and thirty years ago have among them only about seventy-five living sons. What society can do in encouraging marriage and parenthood among the more valuable lines of descent is a difficult, unsolved question. Certainly no legislation in this direction seems needed."

FINALLY GOT HIS TESTIMONY

Deposition of Charles W. Morse Secured in an Italian Town.

New York, Jan. 22.—Testimony given by Charles W. Morse at the New Kursaal hotel, Rapallo, Italy, on Jan. 8 last, in which he admits that he is not financially responsible at present, and that he suggested recently to his attorneys that his creditors put him through bankruptcy, has been filed in the county clerk's office. The testimony also shows that Mr. Morse went to Europe on business and not for his health, as has been intimated.

Mr. Morse testified before A. L. Whately, a London lawyer who was appointed commissioner by Supreme Court Justice Newburger to examine the former banker in a suit brought by Abel L. Culver, former president of the Hudson Navigation company, against Peter McCarthy of Troy, one of the heavy stockholders of the company. The case has been ready for trial for two years, but has been delayed through the inability of McCarthy to obtain Morse's testimony. Before Morse was released from Atlanta, McCarthy's attorney got an order to examine him there, but Morse's health wouldn't permit.

When the case was about to be called for trial the last time Morse had started for Europe before he could be examined. Justice Newburger then issued a roving commission authorizing Lawyer Whately to follow Morse through Europe until he got his testimony.

Suspicion of Foul Play.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 22.—That a Toledo (O.) man was murdered here and not killed by a train is the belief of the police. When first found it was thought marks on the man's head, which caused his death, were inflicted when the train struck him. But later he was examined more closely, and it was found he had probably been hit over the head with a club. A heavy stick was found nearby, which, the police said, strengthened the theory that he was murdered.

Woman Burned to Death.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—One woman was burned to death and eight others were seriously injured in a fire that practically destroyed the factory of T. G. Riordan & Co., manufacturers of leather goods, 2010 West Kinsey street. The woman's charred body was found by firemen in a room on the second floor of the building. Her escape had been cut off by the flames. She could not be identified. She was about twenty-five years old.

Prisoner Assaulted Sheriff.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 22.—John Howard, one of the five jail breakers, who was caught a few hours after his escape, confessed that he was in the conspiracy. On this confession he was sentenced to from two to fourteen years for assault with intent to kill. Shortly after the sentence was imposed he attempted to assault Sheriff Shea in the jail and the sheriff knocked him down.

GREATEST MEET OF MODERN TIME

George H. L. Beeman Says World's Conference Will Gather Galaxy of Great Men.

OF NATIONAL REPUTATION

Field Secretary of National Reform
Association Spends Time Here
Arousing Interest in Event.

"One of the greatest gatherings of modern times will be the World's Christian Citizenship conference which will be held next summer at Portland, Oregon," said the Rev. G. H. L. Beeman of Greencastle yesterday. Dr. Beeman spoke here three times last Sunday in the interests of the coming conference and is pending the week here to arouse interest in the event.

"It will be great in the galaxy of great names on the program," continued Dr. Beeman. "The program will include President-elect Woodrow Wilson, Charles W. Fairbanks, Justice Hughes, Bishop William A. Quayle, Mark Allison Matthews, David Starr Jordan and a hundred others.

"It will be great in the importance of the subject to be considered—all the great moral problems which are indeed world problems, and with which government must deal. The discussion there will deal with the Bible and the Christian principles of government in their application to these problems."

The National Reform Association, which is planning and carrying out the arrangements for this gathering, is represented by Dr. Beeman, who is the State field secretary. Dr. A. W. Jamieson, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, is the State president. The national president of Dr. Henry Collin Minton of Trenton, New Jersey.

"The coming world's conference," says Dr. Beeman in conclusion, "will have a mighty influence for the advancement of moral reforms and the furtherance of spiritual work in the church as well. Rushville should be represented at Portland by all means."

It is believed that Judge Blair will begin a new term of court at Shelbyville and that the local court opening will go by until a judge and prosecutor are appointed.

PLEADS FOR THE PRESENT SYSTEM

President of I. & C. Asks Lawmakers
Not to Take Interurbans
From Under Commission.

NO COMPLAINT AGAINST IT

Charles L. Henry, president of the I. & C. Traction company, spoke last night before the senate committee of the legislature in Indianapolis hearing argument on the bill providing for a public utilities commission in Indiana. He spoke of the application of the Indiana railroad commission law to interurban and argued that traction lines be left under the supervision of the railroad commission.

He pointed out that the interurban service is governed by rates for railroad service. He said there was no complaint against the railroad commission. He said the new bill proposes new regulations for interurbans but does not do the same for railroads. He called on the lawmakers not to take interurbans and railroads from the control of the railroad commission law. He urged that the old law be not changed saying it would mean confusion for years to come. He said all points relating to interurbans were covered already by the railroad commission law.

BILL TO PREVENT EXCESS CAR FARE

Measure Would Make Cash Payment on Common Carriers Same as Price of Ticket.

LIMITS CHARGE TO TWO CENTS

To stop the collection by railroad conductors of 10 cents excess from the passenger who pays cash fare is the chief object of a bill introduced in the lower house of the legislature by Representative John R. Jones. As the law now stands the railroad company is enabled to get a dime from each passenger who for any reason fails to purchase a ticket. Mr. Jones's bill would limit the charge to be made by a railroad to 2 cents a mile. Otherwise the bill is similar to the present law. Where the fare, for example, figures out 33 cents, the railroad may charge 35 cents, and where it is 32 cents the charge can only be 30 cents. It is understood that a fight will be made against this measure and against all similar bills. Supporters of the Jones bill predict that the measure will not be easy to kill.

through. It is understood that Mr. Jones wants $800 for the three wells and that a law suit threatens the city unless he gets it. Mr. Kelley's motion carried and another effort will be made to compromise.

The mayor and clerk were instructed to make a note to the Farmers Trust Company for $1000 in order to meet the council bills. Shortly after this Councilman Parsons moved that the city attorney draw up a bond ordinance for $12,800, the bonds to draw 4 1/4 per cent interest and to run for six years. The ordinance was passed. The money will be used to pay for the water improvements and other expenses. Dr. Parsons stated that this was cheaper than borrowing money at six per cent interest.

Bond ordinances for the improving of Spencer and Market streets were also passed.

Wilbur Stiers was elected to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. R. McDaniels as a member of the library board. The name of Mr. Stiers was presented the unexpired term of M. R. McDaniels when he removed from the city and the vacancy was not filled until last night.

"JOE THE TURK" IS HERE FOR MEETING

Gifted Musician Comes For Three-Day Stay Under Auspices of Salvation Army.

CLOSES WITH SACRED CONCERT

"Joe the Turk" came today to conduct a three-day meeting at the Salvation Army church in South Pearl street under the auspices of the army. His first musical program and lecture will be given this evening. His engagement here will be concluded Friday evening with a sacred concert, for which an admission of ten cents will be charged. The proceeds will go to the local Salvation Army work.

"Joe the Turk" is one of the biggest men working in the harness of the Salvation Army, and Captain Sparks, of the local division of the Army, considers this city is extremely fortunate in having him stop at this place. He generally passes by places as small as Rushville and confines his work to the big cities. He speaks and sings in several languages and plays several different musical instruments; among them being the double-jointed cornet, the saxophone and the Turkish drum.

CHAMPION IS CHALLENGED

The Milroy pool champion, Ray Riche, will get a chance to show his ability against some local shark. Riche recently made a run of 79 balls and several Rushville players are anxious to see if he can repeat against them. Frank Maibaugh of the Arcade pool room offers Riche a match here with one of the local players and believes it would be a great drawing card. Mr. Maibaugh is confident that there is any number of boys here, who can trim the Milroy champion, even if he did run 79 balls and challenges Riche for a match game, his opponent to be named later.

MILROY SCHOOLS ARE OPENED TODAY

High School Held in Old U. P.
Church and Grades in Barton's and Masonic Hall.

FALSE ALARM ABOUT INQUIRY

Milroy school children returned to school today. School had to be discontinued because of the fire which destroyed the school building a week ago last Friday morning. The sessions of the high school are being held in the old United Presbyterian church and the grade pupils are attending in the Barton hall and the Masonic hall. Not quite enough books have been received yet to supply all the pupils, but it was deemed best to start school and not wait until others arrived.

The report that an investigation was to be made as a result of the school building fire seems to have been a false alarm. The authorities felt that there was no necessity for an inquiry.

OVER 2000 ARE CONVERTED

The Biederwolf evangelistic party, which conducted a tabernacle meeting here last fall, is holding a success meeting in Jamestown, N. Y., according to a letter written to friends here by James Heaton, a member of the party. Although they have been there three weeks, more than two thousand people have been converted. Sunday night the tabernacle was filled by 6:45 o'clock and thousands of people were turned away. Meetings were held in two churches to accommodate the overflow.
